2. I have been assured that it was made very clear to your committee that the presentation was based on a very hasty and incomplete analysis of the photography, and that further analysis would be necessary in order to provide adequate support to your deliberations.

3. I should also like to point out that a much more detailed presentation can be accomplished with the aid of graphic materials that were not available to my men last Friday.

4. With this in mind I have instructed [redacted] the Chief of my Military-Scientific Division, to lend all possible support to your effort, and to get the results to you in timely fashion.
